How the Patches Work

Lifewave is a way of turning on a specific biochemical process in the body in a way that traditional phototherapy can't do.

The patches contain organic materials, things like stereo isomers, amino acids, and sugars processed in such a way that they are deposited on polyester fabric so that they form nanoscale crystals. When they come in contact with the body heat next to your skin they produce very low levels of light. The very low levels of light from the patches stimulate nerves and acupuncture points on the skin that produce measurable biochemical changes in the body.

The halflife of Glutathione is 7 minutes. If someone were to get an IV of Glutathione the levels would go up and back down again in about an hour. The rate limiter of Glutathione is Cystine (eggs and whey protein). The patch stimulates the body to produce Glutathione so we can get the Glutathione levels much higher than a supplement can provide. Tens of thousands of studies have been done around the world showing the incredible importance of Glutathione, and how it is found in every area of the body. Glutathione is a master anti-oxidant, is associated with longevity, hearing, eyesight, detoxification pathways.
